

Web 2.0 Business Solutions :: State Enabled Applications

Contributed by Brian Williford

Architecting For Collaboration :: We Understand - Innovate - Integrate

Oh my Brain is creative social media solutions provider. A Web 2.0 business technology and web application development company. We specialize in Social Participation Applications and Content Management Systems that drive E-commerce and community building business components. We service all types of business, marketing firms, and individuals that seek control over their online publishing efforts. Oh My Brain is located in Charlottesville, Virginia.

Oh my Brain, Inc. is proud to announce that we have been approved as a Certified Apple iPhone Developer. We have all the certificates in place to develop and distribute your application on the Apple App Store or for ad hoc (internal company) distribution. Update - We now have a free and paid version of our first iPhone application in review status at Apple and a new site for it to boot. Visit JoomlaDo for more. As a major Joomla Developer iPhone for Joomla apps are a natural fit for us.

With decades of business and technology experience, we at Oh My Brian offer vast experience of understanding, analyzing, and integrating Web 2.0 business solutions to propel your company into new markets.

Our highly imaginative nerds and codesmiths can set up a Content Management System behind your existing website, create a new solution from the bottom-up with all the tools that you, the client, would need to better manage your online presence, or build a community around your brand. Oh My Brain is an SEO (Search Engine Optimization) specialist. Nobody knows your business better than you, so why not take control over what folks see or read about your firm? With twelve solid years of internet experience, nobody knows globally distributed publishing like we do.

Quick view of core competencies:

- Information Architecture :: Technology Consultation:: Software Design
- Certified Apple iPhone Development :: App Store Distribution
- Application Development :: Persistent Interface Integration
- Community Based Content Management Systems:: SEO
- Web 2.0 Business Framework Creation :: Deployment
- Joomla Integration and Custom Component Creation
- LAMP Conversions (Linux, Apache, MySQL, PHP)

And of course all the classic features are included: Branding, Design, PHP Programming, Cold Fusion Programming, MySQL and many more...

The minimum human requirements needed from you are: The drive to exceed your competitors. The desire to take a little time to learn to use tools that will propel you ahead of the game. An appreciation for contributing to your web content production and not be held hostage to some IT firm or mega geek that speaks only in tongues. If you are per chance buzzword compliant, you will appreciate the fact that we are ajaxian to the core and have a tushy packed full of mootools. If that makes as much sense as advanced engineering, all we need to know is "We rock, and we will make you a star". Don't be taken in by preposterous claims made by other web development companies that can't be backed up with OMB's technical expertisem when you have in front of you our even more outlandish [and proven] theories that defy Kepler's third law of physics.